A Veteran Editor Gone.

THE LATE WILBUR F. STOREY.

Wilbur F. Story, proprietor of The Chicago Times, died in that city Oct. 27. He had been incapacitated for business for the past two years, the result of a stroke of paralysis received while in Europe four or five years ago. Mr. Storey was born at Salisbury, Vt., in 1819. His ancestors were also those of the great Chief Justice Storey. At the age of 12 he entered the office of The Middlebury (Vt.) Free Press as a printer's apprentice and there he remained for five years. Thence he went to New York and worked for a year and a half at the case in the office of The Journal of Commerce. In 1838 he went west, first finding employment at South Bend, Ind. Later he appeared as business manager, owner and editor of the Detroit Free Press. His next move was Chicago, where he made arrangements to purchase The Times. He sold The Free Press for $30,000 and carried out this scheme. He found The Times with old type, slow presses and no facilities for printing a first-rate paper, but as rapidly as possible he bought presses and material, and when the great fire of 1871 came it was one of the best equipped newspapers in the country. The fire wiped the property out of existence for the time being, but a new building was quickly erected and the paper was soon better equipped than ever. Mr. Storey spent vast sums in making his paper a thorough vehicle of news, his telegraphic bills increasing from $25,000 in 1872 to $105,000 in 1878. The cost of a single year's improvements was $105,000. Several years ago his mind began to fail, and within a few months his relatives began against him legal proceedings, which terminated in placing his estate under their control.

A Texan Rip Van Winkle.

JUDGE A. B. NORTON

one of the living examples of the foolishness of many pre-election bets, or vows, is that of the editor of The Intelligencer, of Dallas, Texas, who made a vow in the dim distant past, to let neither shears nor razor come near his hirsute excrescences till Henry Clay had been elected president. He is now the Republican candidate for governor of Texas, and will be defeated, as the babies will not allow themselves to be kissed by him, while on his stumping tour.

An Appropriate Hymn.

[Christian Standard.]

At a recent Sunday school meeting in Chicago a long-winded clergyman consumed too much of the time with a wordy address. When he sat down the leader of the meeting unwittingly announced the hymn beginning, "Hallelujah! 'tis done!"

A Patriotic Irish Statesman.

THE LATE ALEXANDER M. SULLIVAN.

The cause of good government in Ireland received a severe blow by the death of Mr. A. M. Sullivan, at Dublin, on Oct. 17, at the age of 54. Beginning life as an artist, in which he displayed remarkable natural talent, his patriotic impulses caused him to relinquish art for journalism and politics, to which he gave earnest, studious thought and, as a result, accurate judgment. As editor of The Nation and proprietor of The Dublin Morning News, he kept himself in the front as a leader of Irish thought and a moulder of opinion. He was a member of parliament for eight years, and one of the founders and the best advisers of the land league, believing as he did that it was only through practical agitation, within the law, that the grievances of his country could be remedied. An evidence of this was shown in his opposition to the Fenian conspiracy. In 1861 Mr. Sullivan married a New Orleans lady, who, with her eldest daughter, accompanied him on his last visit to the United States in 1882.

[New York Sun.]

"Now," said the photographer, taking hold of the cloth over the instrument, "are you ready?"

"Yes," replied the customer.

"Well, just keep your eye on that sign," he said, pointing to a legend on the wall which read "Positively No Credit," "and look pleasant."

Reciprocity.

[Life.]

Think not the girl you love, loves not,
She loves, depend upon it;
With willing heart she'll share your lot—
If there's a building on it.

RUINED BY HIS CLAIM.

Experience of a North Carolinian with a Claim Against the Government.

[Washington Republican.]

The following story comes from the lips of an old North Carolinian who hangs about Washington trying to collect his claim against the Government: "Seventeen years ago I was a small truck farmer in North Carolina, had forty acres, and was doing well, when an aunt of mine took up and died, leaving me her estate, which consisted of two hundred and thirty dollars and a claim against the Government for damages. This claim amounted to about one thousand four hundred dollars, and I came to Washington to collect it. I came in a Pullman car. When I go away now it's second-class. I thought that all I'd have to do was to come here and get the money. Well, I got here, hunted up my member, told him of my claim, and he promised to attend to it for me. I hung about, gave three dinners at Brown's to the members of a committee to whom my claim was referred, and awaited results. It was not long before my money began to run low, and I was thinking of going home, but that member of mine kept telling me to hang on, and he'd get my claim through all right. I got in the habit of loafing around the capitol, waiting for my claim, but she didn't come. Congress adjourned without acting on it, and at the end of the session I found myself dead broke. I went back home then, determined never to come back again, and would not have done so but for that member of mine. He got me to work for his renomination and he was elected. Then he told me that the Government wanted men like me, and that if I would sell out my place and come here he would surely get my claim through, and would get me in one of the departments. I came back, got in the Patent Office and all went serene until 1874, when I was fired out, my claim was disregarded and my member defeated. Then I had to hustle. The associations I had formed were hard to break away from, and I finally got hanging about the committee rooms, doing odd jobs for members. They would give me a little money now and then, and I managed to eke out a living, but that was all. During all this trouble I became careless of myself. I had no desire to go back to my home, where I know I'd have got a start, but simply hung about and never managed to get clear of the rut I fell into. Yes, I've tried it, but it's no go, and I'm back here again. During the summer months some member generally gets me a pass and gives me a little money, and I go to some of the watering places. This year I went home. Everybody has forgotten me. My money gave out and I had to come back."

"How do you live?"

"On whisky. Yes, whisky; it's easier to get whisky than bread. I hang about, get invited, and work the lunch. Sleep? Oh, the corridors of hotels are convenient, and once—but only once—I went to the station house. I'll manage to live through until the mill gets going again, and then I'll get on to some scheme and make enough, perhaps, to go away next summer. Although you would not think it, I'm only forty-one years of age, but feel seventy. Thanks, I will go you again, and, say, you haven't got a spare quarter, have you? I think I'd like to try a bed to-night."

READY TO SELL HER BED.

A Mother's Appeal to the Kindness of a New York Lawyer.

[N Y. Sun.]

The late William F. Kintzing was very charitably disposed. "I was in Mr. Kintzing's employ as a clerk for many years," said Lawyer Jacob Berlinger yesterday. "He had a big, warm heart, but a very abrupt, sometimes harsh, threatening manner. One day a motherly old woman came into the office. Her 'boy' was 'in trouble,' she said, and she wanted Mr. Kintzing to defend him. Mr. Kintzing was busy, and told me to listen to her story, and see what defense could be made. I found that there was not nothing to defend. The son, according to her story, had been caught in the act. Besides, she had no money, she said, and I didn't suppose that Mr. Kintzing cared about taking a hopeless case without a retainer. She grew urgent, and said she would raise money somehow.

"'How can you raise it?' I asked.

"'Well,' she said, 'sooner than let my boy go to State Prison I'll pawn my feather bed.'

"Mr. Kintzing heard this. He rushed out of his private room and brought his fist down on my desk, and in a most threatening manner, inquired: 'What did you say, madam?'

"'That I'd pawn the feather bed, sir, to pay you,' she faltered.

"'Let me catch you pawning that bed, ma'am,' roared Mr. Kintzing. 'Just let me catch you. I'll fix you if you do ma'am. Who told you to do anything of the kind? I'll take your boy's case, ma'am. I won't charge you a cent either. But just let me catch you pawning that bed!'

"The women appeared to be thoroughly frightened. She sat still, and Mr. Kintzing rushed out of the office. He had a case on in court. A minute or two afterward I was called out, too. When I came back the alleged afflicted mother was gone—so was the costly mantel clock. Everything was blue for a minute or two when Mr. Kintzing returned, and then he laughed at the matter as though it was a good joke, and was kind to the next poor person that came along."

The Emancipation Proclamation.

[Lowell (Mass.) Times.]

On the evening of the day on which President Lincoln's emancipation proclamation was issued at Washington a copy thereof came by telegraph to the Boston Journal office, and on the same evening a meeting of free-soilers had assembled in Tremont Temple. While the night editor of the Journal was engaged in preparing the dispatch for transmission to the composition room, Judge Thomas Russell entered the editorial sanctum, all out of breath, and inquired as to the truth of such a proclamation having been promulgated by the President, and was shown the dispatch sheets on which it was written. He begged the loan of them for a quarter of an hour, but this was refused as being against all rule. The Judge then seized them and ran with all speed from the editorial room followed by the night editor in pursuit, but was not caught. He reached the platform of the Tremont Temple, interrupted the speaking, and read the proclamation, when a scene of excitement followed which baffled description. Some talk was had about the proprietor of the Journal (Colonel Charles O. Rogers) having Judge Russell arrested for theft, but this did not take place. This was the first time that the proclamation was publicly read in Boston.

HENRY VILLARD, who lost his grip on the Northern Pacific a year ago, is now in Russia building a railroad line for the government to the Caspian sea.

A MEASURE has been introduced into the House of Commons which, if carried, will be rough on the burglars. It is proposed to diminish the crime, which has been steadily increasing of late years, to make the punishment of those found guilty a compulsory sentence of imprisonment for life, instead of imprisonment for a period of two to fourteen years at the discretion of the judge.

A TEST has been made of the Brush electric light, on the mast system, similar to that in use in this city, in Sacramento. Four masts are used, and each was to have a capacity to illuminate a territory of three blocks radius. The test was entirely satisfactory, the penetrating power of the light being much greater—disseminating over double the area—than that contracted for. The residents are enthusiastic, and already some of the property owners have placed a large advance in value to the credit of their holdings.

THE position of the C. P. R. is thus succinctly stated: That the syndicate need more money to complete the road; that they have not given up hope of raising it in England by bonds guaranteed perhaps by the Imperial government which is beginning to see more and more that the road is of Imperial importance; that if this fails the Canadian Government will come to the rescue of the company and advance them a sufficient amount as a loan after the adjournment of parliament.

As a result of a contest extending over several years, the San Francisco Board of Education has decided that the position of any female school teacher who marries becomes vacant. Another rule adopted by the Board abolishes corporal punishment in grammar and primary schools except by the principal and he is forbidden to chastise pupils on the same day that the offence is committed. The rule also provides that no cruel or unusual punishments be allowed and that there be no corporal punishment in high or evening schools or upon girls in any grade.

A TELEPHONE company in Nebraska refused a certain man the use of a telephone, though he applied for one under the rules pertaining to all applicants. He sued the company, and the Supreme Court of that State rendered a decision sustaining a mandamus issued by the court below compelling the telephone company to furnish an instrument and service on the usual conditions. The decision will be looked on as a pre-eminently just one. Telephone companies are as much the servants of the public as are railway companies or other corporations, and they should know that they cannot discriminate against individuals who are willing to abide by their rules.

THE opinions of Judge Begbie on the Chinese question, published in yesterday's and to day's TIMES, are taken from the report of the Commission. The length of His Lordship's remarks has compelled us to omit everything but the most salient points in his voluminous statement. In future issues we will publish the views of other residents of the Province on this question, which is paramount to all others. Our people are eager to learn the views of leading citizens, the expression of which no doubt had a powerful influence in shaping the one-sided and biased report of the Commission. THE TIMES, it will be observed, is the only newspaper in the Province that has had the enterprise to place this information before the public.

A BILL to prohibit the importation of contract labor has become law in the United States. One of the effects will be to exclude French Canadians, who swarm over to the lumber camps of Maine, and the factories of New England for a few months each year, and without any intention of becoming citizens of the republic, returning to their homes again when their work is ended. An exception is made in the case of skilled workmen in industries not established in the country. Infringement of the law is to be punished by heavy fines. Surely, if the United States is justified in protecting its citizens against foreign white labor, Canada can, with better reason restrict the immigration of a people that have nothing in common with white men and never will become citizens.

THE DOMINION CAPITAL.

What is Thought of the Chinese Commission Report.

THE ESTIMATES FOR NEXT YEAR

[From Our Special Correspondent.]

OTTAWA, Feb. 27.

Although the Budget has not yet been brought down the work of the session is making what may be considered fair progress, in comparison with other sessions, and we have now fairly got into our night sittings, the House not adjourning until after 10 o'clock each evening. The debates so far, however, have been of a dry and rather uninteresting character, with an exception or two, although one would not think so judging from the crowded galleries, especially during the evening sittings. The Finance Minister, Sir Leonard Tilley, has promised to make his financial statement on Tuesday next, and that is considered to be the beginning of the real work of the session. The much delayed report of

THE CHINESE COMMISSION

Was laid on the table of the Senate on Tuesday last, but was not, through accident, presented to the House of Commons until Wednesday. The report, it is needless to say, is not what was expected. Considering the preparations which were made for the Commission to set to work, and from what was seen by the Commissioners on their trip to that Province, there are many who cannot understand how they could have come to such an unsatisfactory conclusion. As an instance, it may be mentioned that in one portion of the report it is stated that as navvies the Chinese are to be preferred to white men. How any one, possessed of common sense, can with any degree of seriousness, make such a statement I cannot understand. Some of your members have already expressed their determination to address Parliament on this question, and, with no uncertain sound, to give the Government to distinctly understand that the report is very far from being a satisfactory one. The members of the Government must themselves now see this in view of the fact that quite a number of petitions signed by thousands of people have already been presented to Parliament from all parts of the Dominion, and continue still to pour in, several having been presented to-day. If the Government do not, as they undoubtedly should, pass a strong restrictive measure, prohibiting Chinese immigration in toto, when the Canadian Pacific Railway is completed, they may expect to have them come as far as Eastern Canada. Should the Chinese ever do so there will be such an outcry against their immigration as will force the Government to adopt measures which they undoubtedly should lose no time in doing now. I suppose your readers have already seen the conclusions of the report which I wired you at the time, the TIMES enjoying the distinction, with one or two other papers in the Dominion of having the news wired to it first.

THE CANADIAN PACIFIC RAILWAY

Seems to enjoy a rest in political circles here just now, the rumors as to an application to Parliament for further aid, which were freely going the rounds a week or two ago, having completely died out. Mr. Blake is not moving many resolutions for papers just now, although he is still keeping up a quiet, but steady fire in this direction, with the object perhaps of showing both the House, the public and even the Canadian Pacific Company itself that his settled purpose is to find out all he can about the workings of the road, and then attack our great national highway instead of, as it is undoubtedly his duty to do, to sink party prejudice and uphold the hands of any Government which is honestly trying to build the road in the quickest possible manner. One of his latest motions was to move for any information in the department as to the character of the work near Lytton, British Columbia, on the Canadian Pacific railway in that portion of the road for which Mr. Hugh J. Keefer had a sub-contract and which was under the inspection of his brother, Mr. George Keefer, Government engineer, also copies of any material allowed as rock or as other than earth in this part.

THE ESTIMATES

For the fiscal year, 1885-86, were submitted to Parliament to-night. The estimated expenditure chargeable to revenue account is $31,757,032.35 as against $30,468,630.13 for the year 1884-5, and the estimated expenditure chargeable to capital is $10,497,726.31 as against $48,816,654.07 for 1884-85, which of course included the loan to the Canadian Pacific railway.

DEATH OF HON. ISAAC BURPEE, M. P.

The sad tidings of the death in New York of Hon. Isaac Burpee, M. P. for St. John, N. B. was not unexpected. For months past he had been exceedingly ill, and, his disease showing no signs of abatement, he went to New York not long since in order to place himself in the hands of the most eminent physicians. After lingering for days between life and death, he breathed his last on Sunday, 1st inst. He was a descendant of a Huguenot family that, driven out of France in 1570, took refuge in England, subsequently joined the little colony of Puritans in Massachusetts bay, and the descendants of which in 1763 removed to New Brunswick. He was the eldest son of the late Isaac Burpee, of Sheffield, N. B., and was born at Sheffield Nov. 28th, 1825. He entered into partnership in the hardware business with his brother Frederick, and afterwards with another brother, John Burpee. He was first returned to Parliament for St. John at the general election of 1872, and was sworn of the Privy Council and appointed Minister of Customs in the Mackenzie Government, Nov. 7, 1878. He was re-elected for the same constituency at each subsequent election, but during the greater part of last session was unable to attend to his Parliamentary duties, owing to family afflictions and press of private business.

THE CHINESE QUESTION.

Synopsis of the Opinions of Sir Matthew Begbie, Chief Justice

As Published in the Commissioners' Report.

Whether the presence of the Chinamen is any longer desirable in British Columbia, is to a certain extent a matter of opinion. But as to the past the undoubted facts are: 1st. That Chinamen are very largely, and till within a year, mainly, employed in all the laborious parts of our coal mines; 2nd. They constitute three-fourths of the working hands about every salmon cannery; 3rd. They are a very large majority of the laborers employed in gold-mining; 4th. They are the model market gardeners of the province, and produce the greater part of the vegetables grown here; 5th; They have been found to be absolutely indispensable in the construction of the railway; 6th. They are largely, sometimes exclusively, employed in nearly every manufactory or undertaking of any description, not being under the authority of a board or council elected exclusively by white voters.

I do not see how people would get on here at all without Chinamen. They do, and do well, what white women cannot do, and do what white men will not do. If Chinamen were expelled, employers of labor would probably have to leave the province; and when they were gone, where would the employed be?

Probably most people who now employ servants, would go away. All canneries and many other successful establishments would be closed. The railway works (construction and repairs) would necessarily be suspended. People with any realized property who remained (if any remained) would be very uncomfortable, I should apprehend. People without any means would probably have very few employers to support them.

I should say, not a certain number, but an uncertain number, are necessary to be retained; to be imported, if all those now here should depart. How many depends upon circumstances. The supply would probably regulate itself as does the supply of horses. Would it be advisable to banish all horses from the province? To do so, would open out many opportunities for white men's labor. Would it be desirable to secure a supply of half a million of horses? They would probably eat us all up: i. e. devour all our means of subsistence.

It does not seem generally understood by those who work with their hands, that unless the result of their handiwork, is marketably worth more than the money they receive for wages, their employment must soon stop. The lowest limit of wages is the money which will buy the necessaries of life for the laborer. The highest limit is the whole of the augmented value which his labor confers on the material operated on. If the laborer accepts less than the first, he will die of want. If the employer gives the whole of the second, he will leave himself nothing to live upon, and will speedily die of want in his turn, unless he more speedily retire from his undertaking and place his capital in the funds; when he will at last get interest. Between these two impassable limits the rate of wages oscillates according to supply and demand. Now the only paying industries here are the canneries and shoe factories, in both of which the labor is almost exclusively Chinese. Owing to a very great superiority in the mineral, the coal mines have paid largely, notwithstanding the rates of white miners wages, unequalled elsewhere; but the coal mines have hitherto largely employed Chinamen also. Few other established industries have accumulated any gains.

After all that I have said about Chinamen, I can lay no more claim to consistency than anybody else in British Columbia. They are generally abused, and yet everybody employs them. I have always asserted their good qualities; but I have never in twenty-six years had a Chinaman in my house, an expensive whim that nobody else has indulged in. Still, I have had my opportunities of seeing and hearing, for in all that time, I do not think I ever knew a family that did not employ at least one Chinaman.

I cannot believe that white immigration has been retarded by presence of Chinese; on the contrary, as the presence of Chinamen has enabled some small capital to be accumulated they must have augmented the wages fund in the province.

I have never personally observed any effect by the Chinese upon the morals of the white people. The latter have occasionally been induced by race prejudice to indulge in acts of violence; but it would be too much to say from thence that the Chinaman had corrupted his cowardly assailants. One Chinaman, last year, pleaded guilty to an indictment for indecent assault on two girls of ten or eleven and twelve or thirteen years. I am not sure that he quite understood the effect of his plea, nor am I at all sure that a jury would have convicted a white man on the evidence in the depositions; but I felt sure that he had acted abominably, whether tempter or tempted, though I don't think it was he who had corrupted the children's morals in the least. However that is the only case I remember in which it could be alleged that a Chinaman had any evil effect upon the morals of the whites, a matter upon which they can have very little influence, either for good or evil.

I have seen unmistakable prostitutes in the Chinese quarter of Victoria. But I never noticed any indecent words or gestures, nor anything comparable to what used to be seen any night in Holborn or the Strand; and from all I have seen and heard, I should say that they do not flaunt their vice and depravity at all. Drunken whites, I am sorry to say, are often seen in Victoria, by night or by day; but I do not remember ever to have seen a Chinaman under the influence of liquor.

Chinamen here are generally divided into two tribes, or clans—there may be more, but I have often had my attention drawn to these two—viz: "Canton" and "Hong Kong." Between these clans there is often much jealousy, and sometimes ill blood. Their dialects are in many respects dissimilar, not only in pronunciation; but to such an extent as to have different names for common things; and they very often do not well understand each other, perhaps not better than a Northumberland farm laborer would understand one from Essex or Dorsetshire. When a breach of the peace occurs among Chinamen the culprits are generally Canton versus Hong Kong; and when these come into court, either in criminal or civil cases, it is common to allow each side to have an interpreter, as well to watch that the evidence is truly interpreted as also to explain it to their respective clients.

A SCIENTIFIC QUESTION.—There is scarcely a sitting of the House that some member or other is not conspicuously carrying on a flirtation with a pretty girl. Yesterday afternoon there was more than one member engaged in this attractively giddy dissipation—and bald-headed members, too. In my observations I notice it is an invariable rule, that when a bald-headed man is a flirt, the more bald-headed the man is, the prettier the girl is with whom he flirts. Now what assimilation can there be between a bald-headed man and a pretty girl? I shall ask the lady-killer from the Lower Provinces, whose pleasant tete-a-tete—not with one but two sweet specimens of feminine loveliness, in a prominent gallery position yesterday suggested these reflections—and make a note of it.—Ottawa Free Press.

THE NATIONAL POLICY.

The Proposed Changes in the Tariff.

Sir Leonard announced a few tariff changes on March 4th. A number of articles made free by order in council are to be made free by act of Parliament. The following articles are to bear 25 per cent., an increase of 5 per cent: Costume cloth, wincys, pickles and sauces. Cutlery, umbrellas, and parasols are advanced 5 per cent. to 30 per cent; china, porcelain, earthenware and stoneware, increased to 30 per cent.; all carpets except wool carpets, 25 per cent., an increase of 6 per cent. The importation of all goods produced by prison labor is prohibited and a penalty is attached to their importation after July 1st. The duties on all fish and fish oils are exactly the same as the United States duties which will go in force. This step is taken in retaliation for the abrogation of the fishery clauses of the Washington treaty. The exportation of partridges, prairie fowl and woodcock is prohibited. The excise duty on cigars is doubled; that on cigars manufactured from foreign leaf from $3 to $6, and on those from Canadian leaf from $1.50 to $3. The custom duty on tobacco is advanced from 60 cents per pound to $1.20 per pound and 20 per cent. ad valorem.

THE VICTORIA GAOL.

Report of Select Committee of the Legislature.

The following is a summary of the report of the Select Committee appointed by the House to visit and inspect the condition of Victoria gaol: Your Committee appointed to visit and inspect the Victoria gaol, met on Saturday, the 28th ultimo, and proceeded to the gaol for that purpose. They were cordially received by Messrs. Muidoon and Miles, first and second gaolers in charge, Mr. Hutcheson, the principal officer, being temporarily absent on account of ill health. Your committee made a general inspection of the premises and beg leave to report as follows:—The whole gaol is as clean and tidy as possible under the circumstances, and considering the cramped condition of the premises, great credit is due to the officers in charge.

The gaol is, to all outward appearance, in much the same condition as it was in 1873, but little alterations having been made since that date; but upon a closer inspection it was found that the ravages of time have told fearfully against it. The fence enclosing the grounds is in a very unsafe condition, the posts are completely rotted off at their base, and the fact that so few have ever made their escape is due more to the vigilance of the officers in charge than to the security of the institution itself. The sleepers and timbers in the lower part of the outer wall of the wooden or inner building are in a very unsound condition, and to this fact may be traced the escape of two prisoners very recently.

The gaol kitchen is very conveniently arranged, and is kept exceedingly clean and tidy, and everything is conducted in a most orderly manner. A fine cooking range is provided, to which is attached a steam chest, with pipes, &c., to supply hot water for bathing purposes.

The provisions are good, the supply bountiful, and no complaint is made by the prisoners. There are 16 cells in all, averaging about 12 feet long, 6½ feet wide, and 8 feet high. As many as seven persons are sometimes confined and sleep in each of these cells.

The highest number of prisoners confined in the gaol at any one time during the past year was 81, but as many as 100 have sometimes been confined there. At present there are but 52, of whom 3 are females, 10 are Chinamen, and 8 are Indians. The greatest number of Chinamen confined at any one time was 40; the general average is about 20. Their principal crime is larceny. There are three lunatics confined in the gaol at the present time, one of whom, a Mr. Johnson, has been there for some years. These poor unfortunate people should be provided with some comfortable quarters at the earliest possible moment.

Of the 52 prisoners undergoing sentence at the present time, 13 are sailors belonging to the mercantile marine, and were convicted by the resident magistrate at Esquimalt. The extraordinary circumstance of 13 men, including the mate, being committed from one ship for refusing duty, and when, as your committee were informed, some considerable money was due to them, suggests to your committee the advisability of instituting further inquiry in the matter, especially as your committee are given to understand that the incarceration of sailors convicted by Mr. Justice Fisher is of constant occurrence.

Your committee would especially call your attention to the case of Sow Fow and Ah Sim, two Chinamen who, apparently, have decided to remain forever in gaol. They are no sooner out than they commit some trivial offence, evidently for the purpose of being taken in again. Your committee would recommend that the prison discipline be made more stringent in their behalf, if possible, and, if not, that they be sent out of the country.

Sixteen prisoners, at the present time, constitute the chain-gang. They are usually employed at Government House and Government buildings, and occasionally at the public school grounds. Prisoners are usually sent to the chain-gang for the first offence. When not on the gang, they are employed picking oakum, cutting wood, washing and other incidentals for prison use.

The health of the institution is zealously cared for. The medical attendant visits the gaol regularly three times a week, and at other times when called upon. There is no sickness reported, except that before referred to.

The rules of the gaol provide that, when a prisoner has been sentenced, his civilian dress is to be removed and laid away in a room provided for that purpose, where they are all properly marked and numbered and restored to the prisoner on his discharge. The hair is cropped to a uniform length of one inch, and a prison uniform substituted for the one discarded. The rule in regard to hair-cutting is rigidly enforced in all cases except in regard to Chinese prisoners, who, for some unknown cause, have not been subject to this rule for some years. Formerly no distinction was made, and your committee see no reason why this distinction should not be discontinued.

The officers of the gaol are: First, second and third gaoler, superintendent of the chain-gang, balcony guard, and one guard. Three officers sleep on the premises. Their salaries are: First, second and third gaolers, $100, $76 and $60 a month, respectively; first second and third convict guards, $80, $60 and $60, respectively, per month.

The City of Victoria should have a lock-up of its own, as much annoyance is caused to the regular occupants of the gaol, in consequence of the noise and other disturbances created by the continual admittance of prisoners that are brought in during all hours of the night.

So far as your committee could learn, the City of Victoria pays 75 cents a day each for the board of all city prisoners until convicted or committed for trial, but nothing for other accommodation.

A two-inch pipe has been connected with the City Water Works, for convenience in case of fire. There are about 80 feet of two-inch hose attached; but in case of fire taking place at the back of the gaol, or in front of the main building, this would be insufficient; at least 80 feet more should be supplied.

Separate accommodation for female prisoners is an urgent necessity, as the officers experience great trouble in keeping them from the other prisoners and the result is, they are not allowed as much outdoor freedom as could be desired.

There is very little insubordination among the prisoners, and no complaint is charged against officials. Vague rumors, however, have been heard in regard to insobriety, but your committee have been unable to trace them to a reliable source.

Great credit is due to Mr. and Mrs. Spencer, of Victoria City, who are the only persons that take an active interest in the spiritual welfare of the prisoners. These worthy people are regular in their attendance on the Sabbath day, and are untiring in their administrations to the spiritual wants and comforts of the prison inmates.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE.

(THE TIMES wishes it to be distinctly understood that it is in no way responsible for, and does not necessarily agree with its correspondents.)

An Answer to "Another Workman."

TO THE EDITOR OF THE TIMES:

SIR:—In my last letter I tried to state a few plain facts concerning the progress of Nanaimo, not intending to hit anybody in particular; but it seems that some one's corns were long enough to receive a severe pinch. This gentleman gives vent to his wrath by assuming the garb of a workingman, and attempting to criticise my letter rather severely. From the general tone of his letter, it is plain to be seen that he favors the non-producing class. He makes a very bold assertion and says that he does not believe a workingman of sound principles was ever insulted at the hustings in Nanaimo. The workingman was insulted at the hustings nevertheless, whether his principles was sound or not. We must remember that in these degenerate days of politics, principle is largely a matter of opinion, and men must be allowed to differ. Why does he make particular mention of this circumstance? In his own borrowed language I would exclaim, "Ah, there's the rub." Very probably he has proved to his sorrow that, "The best laid schemes of mice and men oft gang agee;" but why he attempts to apply this to the workingmen of Nanaimo, I cannot imagine. It is a well-known fact that workingmen don't lay deep schemes—they could not even if they would; it is the non-producers who do most of the scheming. I have an idea that he is in some way connected with a "Bible society," for he assumes the spirit of the old prophets and gives utterance to the following passage: "Those who sow the wind will reap the whirlwind." He seems to predict that some great calamity is about to fall on the workingmen of Nanaimo. If such is the case I am sure it would be a pity, for when anything serious happens the producers of wealth it is a hard lookout for those who are depending on them for support.

He cannot conceive of a man doing anything for the good of his fellows, without being compensated with dollars and cents. He should not attempt to measure other men by himself, for we are not all constituted alike.

It seems that he has been gathering knowledge to prove that the T. A. of N., was started before the N. E. P. S. I never said anything to the contrary. The idea I wished to convey was that the workingmen proposed to start a co-operative store, more than a year ago (which is true), but the store did not start till last fall.

If trying to work for the interests of the working class is what he calls my "Hobby Horse." I am proud of it, and while singing its praises, it is gratifying to know that my song is heartily responded to by tens of thousands of honest hard working sons of toil throughout the civilized world. But should he who signs himself "Another Workman" attempt to sign in his true color it would be like a sounding brass or a tinkling symbol. There would be no response but the echo from the hoarse croakings of his own voice.

WORKMAN.

Vindictive-Vindicative.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE TIMES:

SIR,—Noticing that the Colonist is still anxious to vindicate itself, I would submit: The word "vindictive," according to Johnson, not "Rare Old Ben," means "in justification." "Vindictive" means "revengeful." Would not a vindictive jackass vindicate his vindictiveness by vindictive and vindicative braying? Thus showing by vindictive vindicativeness that he vindicated his vindictive power of braying. POLONIUS.

PROVINCIAL PRODUCTIONS.

Some Specimens for Foreign Exhibition.

The following were shipped by Mr. Jessop, for Ottawa for exhibition at Antwerp and London expositions:

CEREALS.

Spring and fall wheat from Springfield farm, Soda creek, Mr. J. F. Hawks; spring wheat from Mr. H. Brent's farm, Mission creek, Okanagan; Peas from Onward farm, near 150-mile house, Cariboo road; fall wheat from Mr. Wm. Thompson, South Saanich; spring wheat from Mr. J. D. Bryant, South Saanich; Peas from Mr. J. Brethour, North Saanich.

MINERALS.

Three blocks coal from Vancouver Coal company mine, Nanaimo—4 cwt., 2 cwt., and 1 cwt.—to form a pyramid; a block of Jarvis Inlet granite, Newcastle sandstone and Beaver Cove marble, to form another pyramid; specimen of Queen Charlotte anthracite; blocks of iron ore, magnetic and red hematite, from Sooke; piece of Eureka mine silver ore from Hope. Another piece from the Sterling mine, Cowichan; specimens of Jarvis Inlet copper; specimens of argentiferous galena from Kootenay; five specimens of Cariboo quartz from Burns' mountain, supplied by Messrs. Oppenheimer Bros. of this city, and valued at $250.

GENERAL EXHIBITS.

Box of fish guano and case of salmon from Mr. Joseph Spratt; dried and salted oolachans, oolachan oil and Black Cod, or Skil, from Mr. Henry Saunders; tan bark, ground and unground, also leather, from the Belmont Tannery; salmon and other labels and lithographic specimens from the Colonist office. The limited time at the disposal of the agent here precluded the possibility of a full exhibit being forwarded in time for Antwerp.

Gakdal.

Gakdal, the point Gen. Buller has reached on his retirement to Korti, consists of a basin, enclosed by high rocks of black granite stone. The three reservoirs—wrongly called wells, for they only contain rainwater—are situated at the north end. The lowest and largest is partly in a cave under the rock, and only four camels can approach to drink at a time. The engineers have made another reservoir and set up pumps and troughs, so that the water of the two upper pools can be brought down for use to the ground level.

Lands in the Railway Belt.

Sir John stated in the House of Commons a few days ago that the Homestead Act of Manitoba and the Northwest did not apply to lands within the railway belt in British Columbia. The price of the land will be settled after the surveys have been completed. Several applications have been made for land within the railway belt on Vancouver Island, but none have been granted.

Photographic.

For first-class style, and elegance of finish, go to Spencer & Hastings' Studio, Fort street. *

Rand Bros., real estate brokers, New Westminster, have large lists of Coal Harbor property for sale. In a few weeks they will open an office at the terminus and will then show their patrons over the grounds. *

Window Glass.

Chancey's 16 oz., all sizes, from 7x9 upwards, for sale by Messrs. Muirhead & Mann, Victoria sash and door factory. *

For regularity in quality and choice flavor, the Brandy of Jules Robin & Co., Cognac, takes the lead. Their agents in Victoria, Robert Ward & Co., Wharf street, keep full stocks in bond or duty paid. *

VOTE OF CENSURE.

The Chinese Commissioners Condemned by the City Council.

The following resolution will be offered at the meeting of the City Council tonight, and will doubtless be carried unanimously:

"Whereas the reports and recommendations made by the Commissioners appointed on the question of Chinese immigration, are such as to render it necessary that this council, as the representatives of the municipality of the city of Victoria, should bring before our representatives at Ottawa our great disappointment at, and disapproval of the conclusions arrived at by the Commissioners—Messrs. Chapleau and Gray—and express at the same time the views of this Council thereon, and on the question generally, in order that further efforts may be encouraged for the accomplishment of the unqualified and repeatedly expressed wish through their representatives, to prevent, by act of Parliament, the immigration of Chinese into this Province.

"Be it therefore resolved, that this council records its unreserved dissent from the recommendations made by the commissioners to continue to allow Chinese to come into this Province in large numbers upon the terms named by them; that in the opinion of this council the findings of the Commissioners are not justified by the facts; that the presence of Chinese is and has been highly injurious to the industrial population of the Province; and that our representatives in the Dominion Parliament at Ottawa be requested to bring to the notice of the Dominion Government the views expressed in this resolution, and urge upon them by every constitutional means at their command the necessity that still exists for immediate legislation to restrict the immigration of Chinese into Canada, as being antagonistic to the moral, social and material well-being, not only of this Province, but of the Dominion at large."

COULD NOT LAND.

The Authorities Enforce the Chinese Restriction Act.

On the steamer Geo. E. Starr, to-day, were 20 Chinese who were coming to enjoy the balmy air, etc., of the province. But shortly before the steamer touched the wharf, Supt. Bloomfield and a number of assistants arrived with orders to enforce the provisions of the new Chinese Restriction Act. John could not understand why he should be asked to pay $50 for the privilege of landing. The other passengers left the steamer but the Celestials remained on board. They will be returned by the steamer on Thursday. The city police were acting under instructions received from the Provincial authorities.

PERSONAL MENTION

Mr. Dunsmuir went to Departure Bay on the tug Alexander yesterday.

Mr. Henderson, manager of the Dominion Saw Mill Co., is in the city.

Mr. W. C. Dibblee, of Winnipeg, is registered at the Oriental.

Mr. Spencer Mara and Mrs. Mara returned home to-day.

Mr. Charles Semlin, M. P. P., returned to his home at Cache Creek this morning.

Mr. W. O'Shaughnessy, late train dispatcher in the Winnipeg office on the C. P. R., is in the city on the way to Yale to take a position on the road there.

Mr. James Smith, formerly of the firm of R. McDougall & Co., Galt, has come to British Columbia, and will assume a position in a foundry at New Westminster.

Mr. Charles Wishart, of Winnipeg, an ex-alderman, and lately a wholesale grocer in the Prarie City, is stopping at the Oriental. He is so favorably impressed with what he has seen here that he will probably conclude to remain permanently.

Real Estate Sales.

The lot and buildings on the southeast corner of Government and Broughton streets was sold yesterday to Mr. Joseph Lowen for $16,000.

The lot and building on the northeast corner of Government and Humboldt streets has been sold to Lowen & Erb for $9000.

The lot and building northwest corner of Douglas and Broughton streets was sold to Dr. Milne to-day for $7500.

There are other transfers of valuable property on the tapis, and will probably be consummated at an early day. Evidently the prospective boom at Coal Harbor is not having a depreciating effect on Victoria city property.

Ocean to Ocean.

Mr. Van Horne was interviewed on March 1st in Winnipeg, when he said: The connecting link across the Selkirks is being pushed forward as rapidly as possible. There has been no cessation of work during the winter and the force will be largely augmented in the spring and the last spike driven about the 1st of August. Mr. Van Horne's statement as telegraphed from Chicago that "a plain iron spike will be driven into the last rail, and everybody who comes to witness the event will have to pay his own fare," was made to an importunate reporter who wanted to take a trip to the Rockies and go through to the Pacific coast and the courtesies of the road will probably be extended to members of the Dominion Government and M. P.'s who may wish to make the trip.

Canadian Fisheries.

A preliminary report of the Fisheries department was presented to Parliament last week. An excuse is made by the Minister for not being able to give a full report, owing to the remoteness of several districts. The total value of the fisheries for the year 1884 is as follows:

| | |
|---|---|
| Nova Scotia | $8,736,264 |
| New Brunswick | 3,730,454 |
| Quebec (estimated) | 1,800,000 |
| British Columbia (estimated) | 1,500,000 |
| Ontario (estimated) | 1,000,000 |
| Prince Edward Island (estim'd) | 1,086,004 |
| Total | $17,852,721 |

Great vigilance is exercised at the Quebec parliament house. Double guards have been placed, and all entrances closed except one. Everyone is subjected to a severe examination before being allowed to enter. Strangers have to state their business and be recognized by the person whom they wish to see. Only members of parliament and other officers and reporters escape severe tests.

England's Concessions in Africa to Germany.

Special Dispatches to THE TIMES.

Gordon's Family.

LONDON, March 11.—The government has invested twenty thousand pounds for the benefit of Gen. Gordon's family.

Respectful Neutrality Advised.

DUBLIN, March 11.—Parnell has issued a manifesto advising the municipalities of Ireland to observe respectful neutrality regarding the approaching visit of the Prince of Wales.

Financial Excitement.

LONDON, March 11.—Financial circles are excited over the official reports received this afternoon confirming the report published in the Times, to the effect that the Russian troops have advanced further into Afghan territory. The Russian Government admits that such a movement has taken place, but asserts it was only intended for the purpose of seeking a more suitable position in case of war with Afghanistan. It is generally believed that both the Afghans and Russians are hurrying forward, and a collision is imminent. British consols have fallen 11-16 of one per cent. and Russian securities 26 per cent., in consequence of the above news.

Foreign Dispatches.

Special Dispatches to THE TIMES.

To Resign.

BERLIN, March 11.—It is rumored that Count Von Master, German Minister to England, is about to resign. The report is credited in high diplomatic circles.

Concessions to Germany.

BERLIN, March 11.—The result of Count Herbert Bismarck's special mission to England, relative to German interests in West Africa, is reported as follows: England cedes to Germany the whole of the Cameroons country, with the exception of the mission town of Victoria, where Germans are alleged to have hauled down the British flag. England further agrees not to interfere with any action Germany may take in the entire country from the south bank of the Rio del Rey, a small river emptying into the Bight of Beafra, some distance north of the equator. Germany, on the other hand, recognizes the supremacy of England over the country lying between the north bank of the Rio del Rey and Lagos. This covers the basin of the lower Niger.

American Meat.

PARIS, March 11.—It is stated that Mr. Tournier, Minister of Commerce, will ask the Chamber of Deputies to repeal the law prohibiting the importation of American meat. This action will be with the view of allaying the feeling aroused by the increased import duties on corn.

Relief of Kassala.

BRUSSELS, March 11.—The Independence Belge announces in a dispatch from Rome that Italy has undertaken the relief of Kassala. The correspondent says plans for the necessary campaign have been completed.

His Wife and Himself.

LIVINGSTON, Ill., March 10.—Charles J. Riggin, aged 75, was despondent over the loss of his money in the Livingston bank which failed a year ago, and last night shot his aged wife to death and then killed himself.

Cabinet Meeting.

WASHINGTON, March 10.—The Cabinet met promptly at noon with all the members present. It is understood that the session was devoted almost entirely to the consideration of Federal appointments. It is asserted on good authority that each member of the Cabinet submitted a list of the appointments in his department held to be essential to the business under present requirements. The lists, it is understood, included only such offices in which a change was desirable at once in order that the new Secretaries might discharge the duties of their offices without the least friction or embarrassment. The deliberations of the Cabinet will probably result in a long list of nominations being sent to the Senate by the President to-day or to-morrow. At the close of the Cabinet meeting the President held a public reception, which lasted over an hour.

The President has recognized Robert Smith as British Consular-Agent of and for Eureka, Arcata and Hookton, Cal., to reside at Eureka.

Special dispatches to THE TIMES.

The Vice-President's Opinion.

ST. LOUIS, (Mo.), March 11.—R. S. Hays, Sr., Vice-President of the Missouri Pacific railway, in an interview on the strike, said the main question in this strike is one of personal liberty, or whether a handful of men, who are not satisfied with their position as employees shall be allowed to prevent other men, who have not expressed any dissatisfaction, from continuing at work. Out of twenty-five thousand employees on the South Western & Wabash systems not one thousand are directly affected by the reduction of wages which is alleged to be the reason of the strike, and I am certain of this thousand at least 500 would go to work to-morrow if they were not restrained by their bulldozing co-employees. The reduction made is in regard to the men employed in machine shops and round houses. The train service hands have not been reduced. The reductions have been principally in Texas.

The Strike Continues.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., March 10.—Nothing new in the railroad strike here this morning. A committee from Sedalia have called on the men in the Missouri Pacific shops, but it is understood they got little, if any satisfaction. It is stated that the men in the Missouri Pacific shops there have declared not to go out. The militia company which left here yesterday is still resting between Jefferson and Sedalia, waiting for a compromise between the road men now going on.

Foundry to Start Up—Church Robbed.

PORT TOWNSEND, March 10.—The public will be glad to know that our foundry and machine shop is gradually nearing the close of a long and tedious litigation. As a consequence the institution will be sold soon by Sheriff Sheehan and may be put in a fair way to be set in operation.

The Port Discovery mills will start next Monday.

St. Paul's Episcopal Church was robbed last night of the silver communion set. The thieves took one chest out near Frank Hastings' house, and when they found the valuable articles were not contained therein, they returned to the church for another in which the plate and other articles were locked, and carried it down near the brewery, where they rifled it of the valuable contents, leaving the rector's gown, napkin, etc.

THE COAL HARBOR SURVEY.

The C. P. R. Engineers Ordered Back to the Mountains.

We learn, by advices from Coal Harbor, that the C. P. R. engineers, having completed their preliminary survey of the extension from Port Moody to Granville, and located the site for the terminal city, have been ordered to return to the mountains, and there continue their labors on the missing link. At the earliest possible moment—when the work in the Cascades is nearing completion—the company's engineers and workmen will return to Coal Harbor and give the final touches to the work they have for several months been engaged upon. The extension down to Coal Harbor, when a portion of the large force now employed is relieved, and can be used for the purpose, will be completed in a few months, and in time for the first through train from Montreal to the Pacific. The plan of the terminal city has been prepared by Mr. Hamilton and forwarded for the approval of the C. P. R. management. The exact topographical appearance of the land has been noted down, the coast line accurately mapped out, and all information has been acquired that is necessary for the early and successful completion of the line and the inauguration of the new terminal city.

Interesting to All.

Nearly everyone is, or should be, interested in Insurance, either Fire, Life or Marine. The fearful ravages of the fire fiend and the attendant losses, should be always guarded against by taking out a Policy in the Royal or London & Lancashire Fire Insurance Companies, both of them in the front rank of British offices; noted as they are, for promptness and liberality in adjusting claims. With regard to Life Assurance, it is positively the duty of every man to make provision for old age or death, and he should see that the office he selects is in every respect a solid institution, such as that old established company, the Standard, of Edinburgh, with its accumulated funds of more than $30,000,000. No excuse can be urged now-a-days on the ground of expense, as the office referred to offers rates of premium and other advantages on a most liberal scale, within the reach of all. Marine Insurance should be carefully attended to by those having anything at risk afloat, no matter whether it is merchandise, personal effects, or even the vessel conveying them. This can be always arranged in the Union, or London and Provincial Marine offices, and as Messrs. Robert Ward & Co, Wharf street, Victoria, are the General Agents for these Fire Life and Marine companies, with full power to issue policies and settle claims, application should be made to them for any insurance required, and they will readily furnish full details with regard to rates of premium and other matters connected with the business. *

Confederation Medal.

His Excellency the Governor-General in council, on the recommendation of the Secretary of State, has been pleased to direct that a copy of this medal struck some years ago by order of the Government to commemorate the Confederation of the British North American Colonies be sent to the Library of the Legislature of British Columbia, and to a long list of public men in the East. The medal, which was designed by Wyon, of London, is a very handsome one, and no doubt will be highly prized by all those to whom it has been sent. The last distribution of the medal took place in the year 1869.

More Exhibits.

Mr. N. H. Chittenden has placed at Mr. Jessop's disposal for exhibition at the Antwerp and London Fairs his celebrated collection of Indian curios and specimens of workmanship of the natives of Queen Charlotte Island. They will be properly labeled and shipped about the end of this week. Mr. Jessop has displayed considerable energy in securing exhibits during the short time allowed him.

A NEW PROBLEM.

What It Costs to Have a Cholera Visitation.

[Pall Mall Budget.]

It will be a nice problem for the statisticians presently to determine what the latest visitation of the cholera in Europe has cost. A week or two ago it was calculated that the quarantine had already resulted in a loss of £1,600,000 to the Italian revenue; and now the Spaniards have begun counting their bill of costs. The falling off in customs since quarantine was established had amounted by the end of August to close upon £250,000, while the value of the exports and imports during the same period had shown a decrease of £675,000. No wonder that the corporations of Madrid and Barcelona have petitioned the Government to take these facts into consideration. The Minister of Finance, finding that the equilibrium of his budget was being seriously disturbed, has persuaded his colleagues that it is time to have done with the quarantine craze, and with the beginning of the present month the regulations have accordingly been relaxed.

Does Whisky Hurt Flies?

[N. Y. Herald.]

"What is it?"

"A fly."

"Take it out of the whisky!"

And the bartender gracefully dipped the inanimate insect from the little amber lake in the bottom of the politician's glass.

"Watch that fly," he said, as he set it on a piece of paper in the window where the sun shone strongly.

The politician sat down and watched it. Thirty minutes passed and the fly was dry, but nothing startling occurred. The politician looked around suspiciously.

"If this is a trick I'll break your back," he observed, calmly, to the bartender.

"It's no trick, honor bright," protested the man, earnestly. "But keep your eyes on him and wait."

In ten minutes more the fly sneezed, walked around, spread its wings and flew away. It had been eight months in the whisky.

As a Fulton street saloon-keeper ceased telling this story to a reporter yesterday he shook his head.

"My son tells me that it actually occurred," he said, "and if it is true it is a remarkable thing and should be investigated. If anybody else had told me I would have put it down as nothing short of a lie. And he hadn't been fishing before he told me, either."

The Professional Story-Teller in Japan.

[Letter in San Francisco Chronicle.]

I have seen in Japan, on many a warm summer evening, under a tree by the roadside, a group of half-clad coolies and even better-class people in a circle round a man in the middle who was relating the old legends of the race in a homely, graphic, interesting style. He had the "gift of the gab werry galopin'" always, this romancer. He had a good voice, and a great deal of expression. He brought in little bits of jokes and light touches of frivolity to lighten the serious interest of his tale. He grew animated, he gesticulated, he acted scenes so vividly that his auditors would unconsciously rise and want to take part. He interjected every now and again a bit of a song and when he had wound his hearer u p to a point he would stop and say: "Let us have a pipe," deliberately take his smoke and then proceed. When it was all over the crowd would rain tempos and even bigger coins on to his little mat and go home delighted. There was always to me a strange charm in the man, and I have often thought that he was a more influential individual and led a happier life than the Daimios or the Samoural. What a fascinating existence, wandering through the loveliest country under the sun, among the most simple, kindly people, spending one's evenings telling stories to grateful audiences.

ABLE TO CARRY IT ALL.

An Italian Woman Convinces a Crowd That She Has a Great Head.

[N. Y. Times.]

A shopkeeper near the City Hall elevated railway station broke up a few old boxes yesterday and left the wood piled up on the curb-stone. Two persons went into his store and asked him for it. One was an Irishman, able-bodied, apparently strong, and rich enough to own a paper of chewing tobacco. The other was an Italian woman, dirty and avaricious-looking, with bronzed and wrinkled face, small blue eyes, a ragged dress of gaudy flannel, and low, thick shoes. The shopkeeper turned to the woman.

"Take it away quick," he said, sharply.

"Yez can't carry it all; lave me soom," said the Irishman.

The woman made no reply, but it was evident that she meant to carry off all that wood or none of it. The Irishman and several other idle men stood around to watch her do it. She didn't work in a hurry. The Aldermen canvassing the city vote were not more deliberate than she was. After taking a thorough survey of the situation, she picked up a few pieces of wood, crossed the street with them, and piled them up on the edge of the stone coping of the steps leading into the Register's office. Then she set a prematurely precocious little girl to guard the pile while she went back for the remainder. For half an hour she deliberately dodged the stream of vehicles with her arms full of wood. She built up her pile as carefully as a boy manipulates his toy "box of bricks." It looked too large for any ordinary human being to lift and carry. The Irishman looked on with patient amusement, but the woman worked on with determined perseverance. Passers-by began to grow interested.

Finally, the little woman had the wood all stacked on the steps of the Register's office, tied it with a piece of cord, and rested awhile for breath. The crowd formed a circle around her and watched her with some curiosity. Teamsters stopped and looked on in wonder. The woman paid not the slightest attention to them. The pile of wood was at least four feet high. She was not much more than five feet in height. She fumbled around what was presumed to be her bustle for a moment and brought forth something which looked like a boiled suet-pudding tied up in a white cloth. She pummeled it and pounded it awhile to make it fit her head, put it on, and then made a dive for that pile of wood. She wiggled around for a minute until her head got well settled, stretched out her arms, and strained her broad shoulders. She pressed her nose into the block of stone until it was almost flat with her face. Suddenly, with a convulsive twitch, she stood erect beneath a small mountain of timber. Fixing her eyes on the Irishman, she stuck out her tongue with a knowing leer and sailed off down Center street as steadily and stately as a ship. The crowd gave her a cheer. The Irishman cut across the street into a saloon, and remarked, as he slapped down a twenty-five-cent piece on the bar:

"Be gobs, ef it had ben me that quarter 'd ha' ben paid out to a lazy expressman."

The Current: The ornithologists have met and voted. It has been settled. The blooming sparrow goes up the bleeding spout!
